Profile

A licensed Architect in the State of California I help develop urban design concepts, then sketch their character. I am always looking to join a team of urban designers or graphic communicators that are interested in creating great places for people, presenting concept ideas in different ways including still art, animation and formatted as storybooks: great new ways that take advantage of all modern technologies, yet always put human character first. You can see many projects, illustrations and hand drawn animations on my website. williamblock.com Recently I have been working on some independent projects including a book about the world's great train stations, projects depicting how places evolve, where I create aerial views that show a place growing over time, and a children's project that is about town design throughout different world cultures. It is about diversity, belonging to community and sharing ideas.

Skills

I have always sketched my ideas, and am very interested in creating places that are full of life. I am able to develop an urban plan, then take a person through the concept visualizing it in 3D through sketches, and animations that are hand drawn. I use SketchUp to develop a massing plan, to generate character sketches, aerial and at ground level, then I use Photoshop, Painter and After Effects to create the animations. I also create interactive web pages.
